Call for Case studies

The BPF Data and New Technologies launched a call for case studies to collect examples of how stakeholders address challenges when collecting and using users' data.

- applications (deployed or under development) that use users' data to provide benefits to the user, and the measures that should avoid that the collected data may be used to harm users.

- frameworks, guidelines, and policies that address challenges and aim to ensure that users whose data is being collected and used can benefit from their data and do not risk to be harmed.

Case studies related as well as unrelated to the fight against the COVID-19 pandemic are welcome !
